

TRAFFIC MEN ENJOY UNIQUE BANQUET

Hall Transformed Into Miniature Railroad Yard—Whistle and Bell Welcome.

The tenth floor of the Raleigh was transformed into a railroad yard. In the hall, for the annual banquet of the Washington Traffic Club last night, the several hundred guests and members at the dinner marched into the room to the sound of railroad whistle and bell and the entire decorative scheme was distinctly "railroad." Miniature coaches and steamships were on the tables and at each plate was a tiny locomotive or freight car.

Following an amusing cabaret, furnished by members and friends of the club, there were speeches by several of the distinguished men present. Congressman Philip P. Campbell of Kansas discussed a project to extend railroad construction to tillable land as a solution of the high cost of living.

R. Walton Moore, special counsel of the Southern railroad, spoke on "Political Firms of the United States." A "square deal" for both transportation company and the public was advocated by Judge Martin A. Knapp, former chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission and chief justice of the former Commerce Court.

The growth of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad was outlined by Charles W. Galloway, general manager of that system. Other speakers were Odell S. Smith, secretary and treasurer of the Norfolk and Washington Steamboat Company, and James S. Murray, assistant to the president of the Baltimore and Ohio.

Those taking part in the program were Harry Howser, Odell S. Smith, George O'Connor, Matt Horne, John J. Gorman, billed "One of the Best," William Claiborne, W. B. Peckham, secretary of the Traffic Club, and E. G. Lamb, of New York City.

Flood Drives Railroads From Cincinnati Depot

CINCINNATI, Feb. 7.—The Central Union Railroad Depot, the tracks of which are inundated by the flood, are vacated, and the various lines operating out of there are forced to use stations on higher ground.

The flood has reached the stage of 54.4 feet, and continues to rise. While a large number of houses in the wholesale and densely populated residence districts are under water, and hundreds of persons have been driven from their homes, the sufferings of people and the damages to goods have been held to the minimum. This was made possible by the simple warning given, as well as the efficient work of the numerous charity and relief organizations.

The flood waters have inundated the low lying sections of both Newport and Covington, Ky., across the river from Cincinnati, and many families have been forced to vacate their homes there.

20 Girls Injured in Fire; Scores Taken From Roof

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Twenty girls were more or less seriously hurt in a fire which swept the seven-story loft building at 10-15 Avenue A, occupied by Wolf & Abramson, manufacturers of haberdashery, clothing, and the United Furniture Stores, and spread to the seven-story building occupied by M. Tannenbaum, a furniture manufacturer, adjoining.

Three alarms were turned in, and when the firemen arrived the loft building was a mass of flames. Girls and men crowded to the windows of the upper floors, begging to be rescued. Four elevators in the building ran until the operators were forced from their posts by flames, and so rapid was the headway gained by the fire that most of the employees were cut off. Scores of girls, panic-stricken, flocked to the upper windows and were about to jump into the life nets below when cooler heads restrained them, and they were taken to the roof and rescued.

Indian Chiefs Visit Gen. Hugh L. Scott

Kiowa Who Knew Chief of Staff As a Youngster, Here to See Sights.

The spectacle of an army chief of staff talking in the Indian tongue and in sign language with two Kiowa chiefs was presented when Ah-Pee-Tone (Wooden Dance) and Issa (Plenty Fire Place), called on Maj. Gen. Hugh L. Scott to pay their respects late yesterday.

General Scott first met the two Indian chiefs when they were young bucks, and he was fresh from West Point, and it was through the friendship he formed with them then that he was able to keep the Kiowas at peace in later years when General Scott commanded the troops in Indian territory. The two Indian chiefs are in Washington to see the sights.

Canadians Suspect Lad From Baltimore Is Spy

BALTIMORE, Feb. 7.—Suspected of being a German spy in the ranks of the Canadian territorial army, Carroll D. Weatherly, of Baltimore, a former employee of the city water department, has written a letter to his mother asking Mayor Preston for an endorsement. He ascribes his present predicament to his ambition to become a sergeant. The interest of Secretary of the Navy Daniels has also been solicited.

Weatherly is twenty-one years of age, and his mother, Mrs. Wilson Weatherly, says he left the city about two months ago to join the Canadian volunteers. He was previously connected with the filtration division of the water department and was a pupil of Mayor Preston's in Grace Episcopal Church. Joining the Canadian army, it appears from his letter that he incurred the enmity of his fellow-soldiers in his desire to become an officer, to the end that he was branded as a spy. He has been before his superior officer three times without definite result.

Mayor Preston being at Palm Beach, Acting Mayor Hubert wrote to Col. J. R. Munro, commander of the Canadian regiment in which Weatherly is enlisted, giving the boy's history, and denying he could be a spy.

Mrs. Weatherly, formerly Miss Carroll, of Raleigh, N. C., belongs to a prominent North Carolina family.

Gen. Bingham Cries for His Leg in Fire Scare

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—One hundred and fifty guests in the Hotel Schuyler, in West Forty-fifth street, fled to the street or were rescued by firemen when fire in the seven-story business building next door drove them out of their rooms. Among those rescued was General Bingham, former police commissioner, who, when aroused, cried for his artificial leg.

"Where's my leg! Where's my leg!" he demanded.

A fireman handed it to him from near his bedside.

To the Young Man

Older Men and the Boys

Older men tell us that buying when prices are high and selling when they are low is the inviolable rule of most of us, and that is the reason why we "lambs" are so thoroughly fleeced.

The point is to know when prices are lowest—whether for stocks or clothing.

Now is the moment here—for clothes and men's furnishings.

less money"

ONE of the best features of DEAL Funeral Service is the fact that we're constantly striving to make it better. When we find that we can improve it, we do not hesitate to do so, for expense and trouble bear no weight in maintaining our matchless quality standard.

That is the reason why DEAL Service has been brought to its present efficiency. That is also why we are called upon to perform the last rites for some of Washington's most prominent people. DEAL Service is BETTER.
